

LIFE'S LESSONS FOR BEN SPENCER SEIDMAN

By reaching out to the right people you will always find a helping hand
Every door can close just as easily as it can open, go through it when you can
Negatives thoughts by others can always be erased by your positive actions

Sisters and brothers will always look out for you, even when they're annoying
Pulling on people too hard will eventually cause them to push away from you
Even the hardest puzzles can be solved so long as you have all of the pieces
Never start something you know you can't be able to finish
Careful thinking now will prevent you from making careless mistakes later
Erasing people's trust happens when you draw the wrong conclusions
Racing towards the finish isn't as important as finishing the race

Short term impulses can result in long term consequences
Even in the darkest moments in life try you hardest to find the light
It can only be considered a complete failure when you stop trying
During times of sadness try to remember the things that make you happy
Many destinations have multiple paths, so choose yours carefully
Attempting something and failing is better then not even trying
No matter what always remember the important lessons life has to teach you

J. Mattes

11/30/15