

LIFE'S LESSONS FOR BRADY CATHERINE O'HARA

Believing in yourself makes it easier for people to believe in you
Raising other people to your level is better than lowering yourself to theirs
Anger drives us apart sometimes but forgiveness will bring us back together
Dedicate some of your time to helping others and they will gladly help you
Yes is the best answer you can give when someone asks for help

Cope with your sorrows by thinking about what brings you joy
Admitting when you did something wrong is the first step to making it right
Talking with people is always a better than talking at them
Hope is only lost the moment you stop trying to look for it
End something bad by starting something good
Remembering the past should never interfere from planning for the future
Include a hug and kiss every time you thank mom and dad
Negative thoughts can always be erased by positive actions
Each time you smile other people will smile with you

Ordinary people sometimes get noticed extraordinary people never get forgotten

Happiness should always be shared with the ones you love
Arriving at the right destination sometimes means taking a few wrong turns
Righting a wrong may not always be easy but it's always worth it
Although life isn't always easy make sure you understand the lessons it teaches

J. Mattes
10/20/12