

Life's Lessons for Hunter Michel Sunier

Hard choices need to be embraced, because they will get harder if ignored

Unrealistic expectations will always cause you to be disappointed

Nobody should be able to make you cry if they can't make you laugh

Trying to rush something will often cause it to move even slower

Entertaining someone else's point of view doesn't mean you must endorse it

Repay a kind act bestowed on you by paying it forward to someone else

Mountains are hard to climb, but will be conquered if you take a step at a time

In the midst of chaos you must try your hardest to remain calm

Catching a little luck most of the time prevents you from dropping the ball

Hearing people talk isn't the same thing as listening to them speak

Each challenge you overcome will make you a better person

Little flashes of doubt should never stop you from seeing the big picture

Scared people are just brave people who need some time to find their courage

Using the right tools allows you to build the strongest bridge to a bright future

New acquaintances are great but nothing is better than old friends

If you always stand up for yourself people are less likely to knock you down

Enjoying simple pleasures will help you cope with complicated problems

Remember the lessons you learn in life and nothing will stand in your way
