

LIFE'S LESSONS FOR TRESSA JOY WILLIAMS

Try your hardest to turn bad experiences into good lessons

Reaching for the stars shouldn't mean taking your feet off the ground

Even the strongest of people have a few weaknesses

Surrounding yourself with people you can trust will keep you out of trouble

Surrounding yourself with people you can't trust, trouble will always find you

Admitting when you did something wrong is the first step to making it right

Jams are always easy to get into and sometimes difficult to escape

Ordinary people sometimes get noticed, extraordinary people never get forgotten

Young intelligence is good but old wisdom is even better

Waiting for things to come will ensure them to go further away

It can only be considered a failure if you don't try your hardest

Love is the one gift that should always be received as well as given

Love is the one gift everyone needs in order to be happy

Incredible events always happen when you least expect it

Attitude sometimes is the only thing that separates failure from success

Minor problems can turn into major disasters if you ignore them for too long

Stop to pay attention whenever life has a lesson to teach you

-J. Mattes

7/27/11